For one lab credit, students involved community service activities can create a community outreach map.

To help other students learn more about how to become involved in this organization, please complete the following Community Outreach Map (COM): We may post your map (anonymously) in the future as a link on our website so others can learn about the organization to which you are affiliated.

What is the name of your organization?

Who is a good contact person in this organization?

What is the address, phone number, e-mail and website (URL) of this organization?

What is the purpose (or mission statement) of this organization?

What was your role in this organization?

Summarize your experience and how you think you benefitted from your involvement.

(Follow a Community Outreach Map)

For one lab credit, student wishing to research community service activities can follow a COM to further their research on a community organization.

To find a COM, check with the Skills Staff or go to our website at <http://www.deanza.fhda.edu/tutorial/adjunct.html>

1. Contact an organization.
2. Arrange a visit to that organization to learn more about what it does and how you might become involved. For example, go to The Sunnyvale Community Services Center to see how you might get involved in collecting, sorting or distributing food to those who need it.
3. When you arrive, obtain and business card, a brochure or handout
4. Submit the business card, etc. with this form, and attach a one page journal describing you what you learned from your visit to this organization.
